The Wedhatama An English Translation:

The Wedhatama Stuart Robson, 2023-11-27 Whenever Javanese scholars are asked to name the high points of their literature almost certainly they will include the W dhatama This is because it is considered to contain the highest wisdom appropriately cast in a mould of fine poetic language The challenge of translation has already been met by several others so that we can speak of ongoing process of interpretation in which the present English translation represents only the most recent stage and in turn invites the critics to correct and improve it as our knowledge of Javanese language and literature grows and deepens On the other hand though any statement on this subject relating to the highest spiritual truths can be no more than an approximation in the end words fail leaving only something like a star or flame pointing the way onward compare W dhatama IV 21 and see the drawing on the front cover This working paper offers an English translation accompanied by the standard Javanese text for the perusal of students with a short introduction and a number of explanatory notes intended to aid the process of interpretation The Wedhatama Stuart O. Robson, 1990 Whenever Javanese scholars are asked to name the high points of their literature almost certainly they will include the W dhatama This is because it is considered to contain the highest wisdom appropriately cast in a mould of fine poetic language The challenge of translation has already been met by several others so that we can speak of ongoing process of interpretation in which the present English translation represents only the most recent stage and in turn invites the critics to correct and improve it as our knowledge of Javanese language and literature grows and deepens On the other hand though any statement on this subject relating to the highest spiritual truths can be no more than an approximation in the end words fail leaving only something like a star or flame pointing the way onward compare W dhatama IV 21 and see the drawing on the front cover This working paper offers an English translation accompanied by the standard Javanese text for the perusal of students with a short introduction and a number of explanatory notes intended to aid the process of interpretation Islam Translated Ronit Ricci, 2011-05-01

The spread of Islam eastward into South and Southeast Asia was one of the most significant cultural shifts in world history As it expanded into these regions Islam was received by cultures vastly different from those in the Middle East incorporating them into a diverse global community that stretched from India to the Philippines In Islam Translated Ronit Ricci uses the Book of One Thousand Questions from its Arabic original to its adaptations into the Javanese Malay and Tamil languages between the sixteenth and twentieth centuries as a means to consider connections that linked Muslims across divides of distance and culture Examining the circulation of this Islamic text and its varied literary forms Ricci explores how processes of literary translation and religious conversion were historically interconnected forms of globalization mutually dependent and creatively reformulated within societies making the transition to Islam Traces of the Ramayana and Mahabharata in Javanese and Malay Literature Ding Choo Ming, Willem van der Molen, 2018-03-15 Local renderings of the two Indian epics Ramayana and Mahabharata in Malay and Javanese literature have existed since around the ninth and tenth centuries In the following centuries new versions were created alongside the old ones and these opened up interesting new directions They questioned the views of previous versions and laid different accents in a continuous process of modernization and adaptation successfully satisfying the curiosity of their audiences for more than a thousand years Much of this history is still unclear For a long time scholarly research made little progress due to its preoccupation with problems of origin The present volume going beyond identifying sources analyses the socio literary contexts and ideological foundations of seemingly similar contents and concepts in different periods it examines the literary functions of borrowing and intertextual referencing and calls upon the visual arts to illustrate the independent character of the epic tradition in Southeast Asia Of Peninsulas and Archipelagos Phrae Chittiphalangsri, Vicente L. Rafael, 2023-07-18

Comprising 11 countries and hundreds of languages from one of the most culturally diverse regions in the world the chapters in this collection explore a wide range of translation issues The subject of this volume is set in the contrasted landscapes of mainland peninsulas and maritime archipelagos in Southeast Asia which whilst remaining a largely minor area in Asian studies harbors a wealth of textual heritage that opens to inquiries and new readings From the post Angkor Cambodia the post colonial Vientiane to the ultra modern Singapore metropolis translation figures problematically in the modernization of indigenous literatures criss crossing chronologically and spatially through different literary landscapes The peninsular geo body gives rise to the politics of singularity as seen in the case of the predominant monolingual culture in Thailand whereas the archipelagic geography such as the thousand islands of Indonesia allows for peculiar types of communication Translation can also be metaphorized poetically to configure the transference in different scenarios such as the cases of self translation in Philippine protest poetry and untranslatability in Vietnamese diasporic writings The collection also includes intra regional comparative views on historical and religious terms This book will appeal to scholars and postgraduate students of translation studies sociolinguistics and Southeast Asian studies Tall Tree, Nest of the Wind: The

Javanese Shadow-play Dewa Ruci Performed by Ki Anom Soeroto Bernard Arps, 2016-04-18 Javanese shadow puppetry is a sophisticated dramatic form often felt to be at the heart of Javanese culture drawing on classic texts but with important contemporary resonance in fields like religion and politics How to make sense of the shadow play as a form of world making In Tall Tree Nest of the Wind Bernard Arps explores this question by considering an all night performance of Dewa Ruci a key play in the repertoire Thrilling and profound Dewa Ruci describes the mighty Bratasena s quest for the ultimate mystical insight The book presents Dewa Ruci as rendered by the distinguished master puppeteer Ki Anom Soeroto in Amsterdam in 1987 The book s unusual design presents the performance texts together with descriptions of the sounds and images that would remain obscure in conventional formats of presentation Copious annotations probe beneath the surface and provide an understanding of the performance s cultural complexity These annotations explain the meanings of puppet action music and shifts in language how the puppeteer wove together into the drama the circumstances of the performance in Amsterdam

Islamic and other religious ideas and references to contemporary Indonesian political ideology Also revealed is the performance s historical multilayering and the picture it paints of the Javanese past Tall Tree Nest of the Wind not only presents an unrivalled insight into the artistic depth of wayang kulit it exemplifies a new field of study the philology of performance

Writing the Past, Inscribing the Future Nancy K. Florida,1995 Located at the juncture of literature history and anthropology Writing the Past Inscribing the Future charts a strategy of how one might read a traditional text of non Western historical literature in order to generate with it an opening for the future This book does so by taking seriously a haunting work of historical prophecy inscribed in the nineteenth century by a royal Javanese exile working through this writing of a colonized past to suggest the reconfiguration of the postcolonial future that this history itself apparently intends After introducing the colonial and postcolonial orientalist projects that would fix the meaning of traditional writing in Java Nancy K Florida provides a nuanced translation of this particular traditional history a history composed in poetry as the dream of a mysterious exile She then undertakes a richly textured reading of the poem that discloses how it manages to escape the fixing of tradition Adopting a dialogic strategy of reading Florida writes to extend as the work s Javanese author demands this history s prophetic potential into a more global register Babad Jaka Tingkir the historical prophecy that Writing the Past Inscribing the Future translates and reads is uniquely suited for such a study Composing an engaging history of the emergence of Islamic power in central Java around the turn of the sixteenth century Babad Jaka Tingkir was written from the vantage of colonial exile to contest the more dominant dynastic historical traditions of nineteenth century court literature Florida reveals how this history s episodic form and focus on characters at the margins of the social order work to disrupt the genealogical claims of conventional royal historiography thus prophetically to open the possibility of an alternative future

Oral Traditions of Southeast Asia and Oceania Herman C. Kemp,2004

Islamic Connections R Michael Feener,Terenjit Sevea,2009 Well over half of the world s Muslim population lives in Asia Over the centuries a rich constellation of Muslim cultures developed there and the region is currently home to some of the most dynamic and important developments in contemporary Islam Despite this the internal dynamics of Muslim societies in Asia do not often receive commensurate attention in international Islamic Studies scholarship This volume brings together the work of an interdisciplinary group of scholars discussing various aspects of the complex relationships between the Muslim communities of South and Southeast Asia With their respective contributions covering points and patterns of interaction from the medieval to the contemporary periods they attempt to map new trajectories for understanding the ways in which these two crucial areas have developed in relation to each other as well as in the broader contexts of both world history and the current age of globalization
