

TRAUMA-INFORMED CARE:

What does it look like?

@therecoverycenterusa

Language and Communication

Helpers use non-judgmental and empathetic language. They avoid making assumptions about an individual's past experiences. For instance, instead of asking, "What's wrong with you?" they might ask, "What happened to you?"

Providing Choices

In healthcare settings, offering choices to patients can be empowering. For example, allowing a patient to choose their meal preferences or the time of their therapy sessions gives them a sense of control.

Sensory-Friendly Environments

Recognizing that sensory sensitivities can be triggered by trauma, trauma-informed care might involve providing calming sensory rooms or ensuring that lighting and noise levels are adjustable to individual preferences.

Active Listening

Helpers actively listen to individuals without interrupting or rushing through appointments. They validate their feelings and experiences.

Training and Self-Care

Healthcare staff are trained in trauma-informed care principles and are encouraged to practice self-care to prevent burnout. This ensures that they can provide the best possible care to their patients.

De-escalation Techniques

In situations where patients may become agitated or distressed, trauma-informed care involves de-escalation techniques that prioritize safety and minimize re-traumatization.
