Terrorist Attacks:

Preventing Terrorist Attacks at Sea Robin Bowley, 2022-12-23 Over recent decades it has been widely recognised that terrorist attacks at sea could result in major casualties and cause significant disruptions to the free flow of international shipping After discussing the overlaps and distinctions between piracy and maritime terrorism this book considers how the International Ship and Port Facility Security Code and other vessel identification and tracking measures in the 1974 International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea would be likely to reduce the risk of terrorist attacks at sea It explains how the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea is less than clear on the powers of states to protect offshore installations submarine cables and pipelines from interference by terrorists In light of these uncertainties it considers how the 2005 Protocol to the Convention for the Suppression of Unlawful Acts Against Maritime Navigation the doctrine of necessity and states inherent self defence rights might apply in the maritime security context A significant contribution of the book is the formulation of the Maritime Terrorism Threat Matrix which provides a structured framework for examining how maritime terrorism incidents have occurred and might occur in the future The book also examines the relevant national maritime security legislation for preventing maritime terrorist attacks in the United Kingdom and in Australia The book concludes by formulating guidelines for the unilateral interdiction of suspected terrorist vessels in exceptional circumstances and recommending priorities for governments and international maritime industries to focus on in order to reduce the risk for terrorist attacks at sea It will be of interest to those working in the areas of Law and Terrorism Law of the Sea Maritime Law and Insurance and International Law

Criminology Theory and Terrorism Joshua D. Freilich, Gary LaFree, 2017-10-02 Although there has been an increase in research on terrorism across the social and behavioural sciences in the past few decades until recently most of this work has originated from political science psychology or economics Therefore our focus in this book on criminological conceptual frameworks and empirical studies that engage terrorism and responses to it is unique

We include a distinguished group of researchers that offer their distinctive insights into criminological perspectives on terrorism. The contributors focus on criminological perspectives that have rarely if ever been previously applied to the study of terrorism. This includes a range of perspectives from rational choice to social disorganization from strain to routine activities theory. This volume will advance understanding of terrorism by taking advantage of criminological contributions and at the same time will serve as a useful update to the criminologists and their students already working in this area. It would also be a helpful introduction to those criminologists and their students who would like to be more engaged in this important area of research. This book was originally published as a special issue of Terrorism and Political Violence.

Annual on Terrorism*, 1990 Terrorism Yonah Alexander, 1989 The Enemy of My Enemy George Michael, 2006 In the violent world of radical extremists the enemy of my enemy is my friend This study reveals how that precept plays out in the unexpected bonding between militant Islam and the extreme right in America and Europe It provides an insightful and sane look at the possibilities for collaboration between these groups Patrolling Baghdad Mark R. DePue, 2007 Captures the experiences of an Illinois National Guard unit in the city of Baghdad where it worked with other MP units to restore order to the chaotic streets while simultaneously helping to rebuild Iraqi police forces and act as boots on the ground diplomats in the inevitable clash of cultures Waging War in Waziristan Andrew M. Roe, 2010 A career soldier with on the ground experience presents a gripping history of the imperial British experience in Waziristan a remote area of Pakistan Distills the hard earned British experience and offers some potentially useful lessons for the West and its current troubles in the same region once described as the epicenter of terrorism and reputedly the hiding place of Osama bin Laden Terrorism in International Law Thomas Moodie Kuhn, 1980 Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing Risks in Botswana Jackson Madzima, 2009 This paper is a contribution to the debate on the risks of money laundering and the financing of terrorism in Botswana It provides an overview of Botswana s Anti Money Laundering and Counter Financing of Terrorism AML CFT regimes An analytical framework woven around the three pillars of prevention enforcement and international co operation is used in this discussion As a benchmark for the discussion the paper outlines the international regulatory regimes for curbing both money laundering and the financing of terrorism The paper is premised on the assumption that both money laundering and the financing of terrorism have similar characteristics and can thus be analysed within the same framework A number of risks are highlighted within the prevailing economic and political context in Botswana While recognising an increasingly improving AML CFT legal framework it is noted that in the absence of a risk based approach to these issues the realisation of international standards will remain a challenge

Defining Americans
Mary E. Stuckey, 2004 Ranging broadly from Andrew Jackson to Bill Clinton and George W Bush Stuckey demonstrates how presidents accomplish the dual enactment of inclusion and exclusion through their rhetorical and political choices Our early leaders were preoccupied with balancing the growing nation later presidents were concerned with the nature and definitions of citizenship By examining the political speeches of presidents exemplifying distinctly different circumstances she presents a series of snapshots which when taken together reveal both the continuity and the changes in our national self understanding
