World Class Schools Bert Creemers, David Reynolds, Sam Stringfield, Charles Teddlie, 2003-09-02 In this book the authors have conducted extensive research and describe what makes a successful school and how this varies in different countries The book follows the progress of a cohort of 7 year old children through their schools over a two year period It covers schools in the US Canada Hong Kong Taiwan Australia the UK Norway the Netherlands and Ireland and draw together what it is that the most and least effective schools do in each country pinpoints what makes effective teaching across the globe analyses which effectiveness producing school and teaching factors appear to be the same and which are context specific discusses how educational policies can be used to generate World Class Schools and which new blends of practice can or should be used The existing literature based upon the comparison of the educational achievements of different countries is inadequate This unique study provides a rich picture of the processes of the education systems of different countries which will appeal to practitioners and policy makers

A World-Class Education Vivien Stewart, 2012-02-02 In the 20th century the United States was the world leader in education the first country to achieve universal secondary education and the first to expand higher education beyond the elite class Now other countries are catching up and leaping ahead in high school graduation rates in the quality and equity of their K 12 education systems and in the proportion of students graduating from college It is not that American education has gotten worse so much that education in other parts of the world has gotten so much better so fast Designed to promote conversation about how to educate students for a rapidly changing and increasingly borderless and innovation based world this comprehensive and illuminating book from international education expert Vivien Stewart is not about casting blame it is about understanding what the best school systems in the world are doing right for the purpose of identifying what U S schools at the national state and local level might do differently and better Here you ll consider How the U S education system fares against emerging international standards of excellence The policies practices and priorities of the world s best performing systems along with specific ideas for adapting these approaches for U S schools The common factors characteristic of high performing and rapidly improving systems New models of 21st century teaching and leadership and ways to modernize curriculum instruction and assessment How technology and international exchange can help the United States close performance gaps and reach new levels of excellence and equity Learning goes both ways Stewart writes Other countries have learned a great deal from the United States and now it is time for American educators to open their eyes to other nations globally minded and future focused practices leverage existing assets and create a truly world class education system for this generation of students and generations to come

Current Problems of University Management Tadeusz Wawak ,2014 The quality of teaching in higher education has been widely discussed for years in Poland and abroad alike As regards our domestic situation the problem has been intensifying since our transformation in 1989 due to the increase in the number of private universities experiencing difficulties in providing adequate academic staff for didactic purposes These types of problems are also noticeable abroad especially in the context of the requirements imposed by the Bologna Process and the recommendations of the European Union That is why an international research project came into being The project was financed by the Department of Applied Economics of the Jagiellonian University and it was joined by universities from the USA Ukraine Russia Algeria Germany and Poland The results of the research carried out under the auspices of Professor Tadeusz Wawak have been presented in the present monograph It can be noticed that the problems which particular universities are struggling with are similar It is also important to say that the completion of the tasks in the scope of pro quality management restructuring at the university demands the implementation of the principles of Total Quality Management Excerpt from the review by Professor Stanis aw Tkaczyk The book focuses on the problems of university management The authors of individual chapters are educational researchers from the USA Russia Algeria the Ukraine and Poland Each of them presents problems existing in their own academic environment on the basis of their personal experience Thus the reader is presented with a full range of currently discussed topics by the institutions responsible for the functioning of the system of education They comprise among others New Economy promoting New University the process of globalization and integration the Bologna Process with adjustment to its recommendations and the internationalization of higher education A comprehensive analysis of the condition of the Ukrainian academic education deserves special attention Not only does it describe its present state but it also contains its critical assessment and a series of proposals including the need to implement the necessary structural changes in this area and to create a comprehensive system improving the quality of university management Additionally the book contains descriptions of new technologies and concepts of education which have emerged recently in the context of the required procedural reform as well as interesting research findings carried out among students in Algeria Excerpt from the review by Professor Tadeusz Grabi ski Journal of Education and School World ,1889 Hospitals and Asylums of the World: Hospitals Sir Henry C.
