Values, Objectivity, and Explanation in Historiography Tor Egil Førland, 2017-01-20 Bringing sophisticated philosophy to bear on real life historiography Values Objectivity and Explanation in Historiography rekindles and invigorates the debate on two perennials in the theory and methodology of history One is the tension between historians values and the ideal or illusion of objective historiography The other is historical explanation The point of departure for the treatment of values and objectivity is an exceptionally heated debate on Cold War historiography in Denmark involving not only historians but also the political parties the national newspapers and the courts The in depth analysis that follows concludes that historians can produce accounts that deserve the label objective even though their descriptions are tinged by ineluctable epistemic instability A separate chapter dissects the postmodern notion of situated truths The second part of the book proffers a new take on historical explanation It is based on the notion of the ideal explanatory text which allows for not only causal including intentional but also nomological structural and functional explanations The approach which can accommodate narrative explanations driven by causal plots is ecumenical but not all encompassing Emergent social properties and supernatural entities are excluded from the ideal explanatory text making scientific historiography methodologically individualistic albeit with room for explanations at higher levels when pragmatically justified and atheist

Making Peace with the 60s David Burner, 2021-07-13 David Burner's panoramic history of the 1960s conveys the ferocity of debate and the testing of visionary hopes that still require us to make sense of the decade He begins with the civil rights and black power movements and then turns to nuanced descriptions of Kennedy and the Cold War the counterculture and its antecedents in the Beat Generation the student rebellion the poverty wars and the liberals war in Vietnam As he considers each topic Burner advances a provocative argument about how liberalism self destructed in the 1960s In his view the civil rights movement took a wrong turn as it gradually came to emphasize the identity politics of race and ethnicity at the expense of the vastly more important politics of class and distribution of wealth The expansion of the Vietnam War did force radicals to confront the most terrible mistake of American liberalism but that they also turned against the social goals of the New Deal was destructive to all concerned Liberals seemed to rule in politics and in the media Burner points out yet they failed to make adequate use of their power to advance the purposes that both liberalism and the left endorsed And forces for social amelioration splintered into pairs of enemies such as integrationists and black separatists the social left and mainline liberalism and advocates of peace and supporters of a totalitarian Hanoi Making Peace with the 60s will fascinate baby boomers and their elders who either joined denounced or tried to ignore the counterculture It will also inform a broad audience of younger people about the famous political and literary figures of the time the salient moments and above all the powerful ideas that spawned events from the civil rights era to the Vietnam War Finally it will help to explain why Americans failed to make full use of the energies unleashed by one of the most remarkable decades of our history Mother Jones Magazine, 1985-02 Mother Jones is an award winning national magazine widely respected for its groundbreaking investigative reporting and coverage of sustainability and environmental issues
