The Merrill Studies in Billy Budd Haskell Springer,1970 The Merrill Studies in Billy Budd. Compiled by Haskell S. Springer Haskell S. Springer,1970 After the Whale Clark Davis,2021-02-23 Examines Herman Melville's short fiction and poetry in the context of popular 1850s fiction The study focuses on Melville's vision of the purpose and function of language from Moby Dick through Billy Budd with a special emphasis on how language in function and form follows and depends on the function and form of the body how Melville's attitude toward words echoes his attitude toward fish Davis begins by locating and describing the fundamental dialectic formulated in Moby Dick in the characters of Ahab and Ishmael This dialectic produces two visions of bodily reality and two corresponding visions of language Ahab's in which language is both weapon and substitute body and Ishmael's in which language is an extension of the body a medium of explanation conversation and play These two forms of language provide a key to understanding the difficult relationships and formal changes in Melville's writings after Moby Dick By following each work's attitude toward the dialectic we can see the contours of the later career more clearly and so begin a movement away from weakly contextualized readings of individual novels and short stories to a more complete consideration of Melville's career Since the rediscovery of Herman Melville in the early decades of this century criticism has been limited to the prose in general and to a few major works in particular Those who have given significant attention to the short fiction and poetry have done so frequently out of context that is in multi author works devoted exclusively to these genres The result has been a criticism with large gaps most especially for works from Melville's later career The relative lack of interest in the poetry has left us with little understanding of how Melville's later voices developed of how the novels evolved into tales the tales into poetry and the poetry back into prose In short the development of Melville's art during the final three decades of his life remains a subject of which we have been afforded only glimpses rarely a continuous attention After the Whale provides a new more comprehensive understanding of Melville's growth as a writer A Companion to Melville Studies John Bryant,1986-11-18 In 25 separate articles scholars with a wide variety of perspectives explore Melville's texts assess the weaknesses and strengths of existing scholarship and suggest directions for future study Part I considers what is known of Melville's life his travels and his relation to New York literati Part II summarizes each of Melville's works surveys reception from early reviews to recent criticism and indicates current problems Parts 3 and 4 probe Melville's conceptions of society language religion and psychology as well as his art comedy tragedy and aesthetics Part 5 traces his relation to and effect on 20th century writers intellectuals and popular culture ISBN 0 313 23874 X 85 00 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Impersonality Sharon Cameron,2009-11-15 Philosophers have long debated the subjects of person and personhood

Sharon Cameron ushers this debate into the literary realm by considering impersonality in the works of major American writers and figures of international modernism writers for whom personal identity is inconsequential and even imaginary In essays on William Empson Jonathan Edwards Ralph Waldo Emerson Herman Melville T S Eliot and Simone Weil Cameron examines the impulse to hollow out the core of human distinctiveness to construct a voice that is no one s voice to fashion a character without meaningful attributes a being that is virtually anonymous To consent to being anonymous Weil wrote is to bear witness to the truth But how is this compatible with social life and its labels Throughout these essays Cameron examines the friction even violence set in motion from such incompatibility from a truth that has no social foundation Impersonality investigates the uncompromising nature of writing that suspends eclipses and even destroys the person as a social political or individual entity of writing that engages with personal identity at the moment when its usual markers vanish or dissolve
