Theory Of Human Need:

A Theory of Human Motivation A. H. Maslow, 2013-12-06 The present paper is an attempt to formulate a positive theory of motivation which will satisfy these theoretical demands and at the same time conform to the known facts clinical and observational as well as experimental It derives most directly however from clinical experience This theory is I think in the functionalist tradition of James and Dewey and is fused with the holism of Wertheimer Goldstein and Gestalt Psychology and with the dynamicism of Freud and Adler This fusion or synthesis may arbitrarily be called a general dynamic theory It is far easier to perceive and to criticize the aspects in motivation theory than to remedy them Mostly this is because of the very serious lack of sound data in this area I conceive this lack of sound facts to be due primarily to the absence of a valid theory of motivation The present theory then must be considered to be a suggested program or framework for future research and must stand or fall not so much on facts available or evidence presented as upon researches to be done researches suggested perhaps by the questions raised in this paper

Culture and international conflict resolution Tarja Vayrynen, 2018-07-30 This book re-examines conflict resolution and particularly problem solving conflict resolution from a new perspective The book is a critical study of John Burton's work and outlines an alternative framework for the study of international conflict It provides an insight into the problems of conflict and conflict resolution from a social constructionist angle Vayrynen argues that culture has a constitutive role in international conflict and conflict resolution Culture offers a grammar for acting in and interpreting the world and provides understandings of conflict and its resolution Theories which deny the importance of cultural failure to understand the ontological conditions of human being
