Abstracts ,1983 Classification Made Simple Eric J. Hunter,2002 An ability to classify is a fundamental requisite of everyday life Classification is also a vital element in information management This established textbook introduces the essentials of classification as used for information storage and retrieval By adopting a gradual progression from very basic principles and by providing practical examples it enables the reader to gain a firm grasp of one idea before proceeding to the next In information work classification may be used in various ways for coding in computerized systems for the organization of manual and machine readable files and catalogues and for shelf arrangement in libraries and information services It can constitute a basis for the production of alphabetical authority lists of subject terms or thesauri and can be applied to other subject indexing and search techniques The approach adopted here is a wide one and is not limited to classification for one specific purpose This revision takes account of developments that have taken place since the first edition was published Perhaps the most significant event has been the phenomenal growth of the Internet and the World Wide Web and this new edition outlines the significant role that classification can play in the accessing of Internet resources Classification Made Simple provides a useful gateway to more advanced works and the study of specific schemes As an introductory text it will be invaluable to students of information work and to anyone inside or outside the information profession who needs to understand the manner in which classification can be utilized to facilitate and enhance the retrieval process
