Trading Identities:

Trading Identities Wally Olins, 1999 Companies and Countries are changing fast and they are becoming more like each other As countries develop their national brands to compete for investment trade and tourism mega merged global companies are using nation building techniques to achieve internal cohesion across cultures and are becoming ever more involved in providing public services like education and health As companies and countries each adopt techniques which have been second nature to the other Wally Olins asks what these cross cutting trends mean for the new balance of global power He explains why global companies are de emphasising nationality but seeking popular legitimacy by talking soft about their social impact and community involvement while governments are increasingly talk about performance indicators and hard statistics

Trading Identities Ruth Bliss Phillips, 1998 Indians in northeastern North America produced a variety of art objects for sale to travelers and tourists during the 18th and 19th centuries This art is of high quality and great aesthetic interest but has been largely ignored by scholars This study combines fieldwork art historical analysis

Wendat Women's Arts Annette W. De Stecher, 2022-04-15 For centuries women artists of the Wendat First Nation of Wendake in Quebec have created artworks of intricate design and complex meaning in moosehair and quill embroidery Their work records and transmits ancestral knowledge across generations of artists and remains a vibrant and important practice today Breaking new ground in Indigenous art histories Wendat Women s Arts is the first book to bring together a full history of the Wendat embroidery art form Annette de Stecher challenges the historical anonymity of Indigenous women artists by arguing for their central role in community history and ceremony Through their art these women played an important part in the diplomatic strategies that advanced the sovereignty of their nation work that was an extension of their position of authority in their families and clans Chiefs and community members wore finely embroidered attire as a brilliant focus of ceremonial events a tradition that continues today Women artists also supported their community economically as their embroidery was a souvenir of choice for European collectors In vibrant illustrations this book reconstructs the rich repertoire of Wendat embroidery now dispersed in collections throughout the world Wendat Women s Arts combines a depth of historical understanding with a keen knowledge of contemporary Wendat artists demonstrating that the story of Wendat women is one of cultural strength innovation resilience and success

Indian-made Erika Marie Bsumek, 2008 In works of silver and wool the Navajos have established a unique brand of American craft And when their artisans were integrated into the American economy during the late nineteenth century they became part of a complex cultural and economic framework in which their handmade crafts conveyed meanings beyond simple adornment Bsumek unravels the layers of meaning that surround the branding of Indian made When Navajo artisans produced their goods collaborating traders tourist industry personnel and even ethnologists created a vision of Navajo culture that had little to do with Navajos themselves And as Anglos consumed Navajo crafts they also consumed the romantic notion of Navajos as primitives perpetuated by the marketplace These processes of production and consumption reinforced each other creating a symbiotic relationship and influencing both mutual Anglo Navajo perceptions and the ways in which Navajos participated in the modern marketplace Ultimately Bsumek shows that the sale of Indian made goods cannot be explained solely through supply and demand It must also reckon with the multiple images and narratives that grew up around the goods themselves integrating consumer culture tourism and history to open new perspectives on our understanding of American Indian material culture BOOK JACKET Keeping a Store Elizabeth Sherburn Demers,2010
