Catholic and Reformed Traditions in International Law Paulo Emilio Vauthier Borges de Macedo,2017-08-28 This book compares the respective concepts of the law of nations put forward by the Spanish theologian Francisco Suarez and by the Dutch jurist Hugo Grotius This comparison is based on the fact that both thinkers developed quite similar notions and were the first to depart from the Roman conception which persisted throughout the entire Middle Ages and the early Renaissance In Rome jus gentium was a law that applied to foreigners within the Empire and one which was often mistaken for Natural Law itself These two features can be found even in the works of writers such as Francisco de Vitoria and Alberico Gentili In Suarez and Grotius the law of nations is applicable to an extra national domain and inarguably becomes positive law Yet it also contains an ethical element that prevents it from transforming into a mere reflection of state interests This work argues that this resemblance is hardly a coincidence Grotius has read Suarez and that influence has modified the foundations of his early thoughts on jus gentium This should not be taken to imply that the Dutch jurist wasn't original in both authors the definition of the law of nations pursues his own internal logic Nevertheless Suarez's oeuvre allowed Grotius to solve a fundamental problem touched on in his early writings that had remained unanswered Accordingly his oeuvre promises to clarify one of the most significant moments in the History of International Law

Laws of Nature, Laws of God? Louise Hickman,Neil Spurway,2015-09-18 Up until the time of Newton scientists regarded the understandings of the physical world at which they were arriving as glimpses of the working of the Creator's mind Thus the generalisations being formulated about the behaviour of matter the Laws of Nature were seen as the Creator's injunctions to created matter as to how it was to act They were laws in the same sense as laws Divine or human about how people should behave that is why the same word was used for both And even now scientific laws are occasionally spoken of as being obeyed However it is doubtful whether any practising scientist religious believer or not now thinks of laws in the way that the word literally implies How instead scientists do or should view scientific laws has been debated since the time of Hume and Kant and it is a vigorous field of investigation among current philosophers of science In this book scientists physical and biological historians and students of ideas all of them theologically informed tackle this topic from many angles They do so in relation to the lead public lecture at the conference from which the book stems given by the eminent and iconoclastic philosopher of science Professor Nancy Cartwright She asked the question How could laws make things happen and her answer was They couldn't
