Strategies Of Deconstruction:

Strategies of Deconstruction Joseph Claude Evans, 1991 Cited in BCL3 Reprint Originally published in 1951 Contains a fairly long new introduction by Jonathan Culler No bibliography Evans philosophy Washington U calls attention to Jacques Derrida's work in philosophy by challenging the cogency of Derrida's deconstructive readings of German philosopher Edmund Husserl raising fundamental questions not only about Derrida's theories of reading and language but about deconstructive practice itself Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Deconstructionism Hector Davidson, Deconstructionism emerged in the late 20th century as a philosophical and literary movement that fundamentally questioned the nature of meaning language and interpretation It is primarily associated with the work of French philosopher Jacques Derrida who in the 1960s and 1970s began to develop ideas that would challenge long held assumptions in philosophy literary theory and critical thought The movement was a response to structuralism which sought to uncover the underlying structures that govern language and society In contrast deconstruction aimed to show that meaning is inherently unstable and that texts and concepts can never be fully fixed or understood in a singular unchanging way The foundational work of Jacques Derrida is central to deconstructionism His concept of différance a term he coined in 1968 highlighted the ways in which meaning is always deferred and never fully attainable Derrida's analysis of language showed that words and concepts derive meaning not from a stable inherent essence but from their relationships with other words In this sense meaning is always in flux and any attempt to pin it down is doomed to fail Derrida's critique of binary oppositions such as presence absence speech writing and truth falsehood argued that these pairs are not neutral but are hierarchically structured with one term always subordinating the other Through works like De la grammatologie 1967 and La Voie et le Voie 1967 Derrida redefined how we understand texts insisting that they are always open to multiple interpretations

Handbook of Feminist Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber, 2012 The second edition of the Handbook of Feminist Research Theory and Praxis presents both a theoretical and practical approach to conducting social science research on for and about women The Handbook enables readers to develop an understanding of feminist research by introducing a range of feminist epistemologies methodologies and methods that have had a significant impact on feminist research practice and women's studies scholarship The Handbook continues to provide a set of clearly defined research concepts that are devoid of as much technical language as possible It continues to engage readers with cutting edge debates in the field as well as the practical applications and issues for those whose research affects social policy and social change It also expands on the wealth of interdisciplinary understanding of feminist research praxis that is grounded in a tight link between epistemology methodology and method The second edition of this Handbook will provide researchers with the tools for excavating subjugated knowledge on women's lives and the lives of other marginalized groups with the goals of empowerment and social change

Researching the contemporary city Peter Kellett, Jaime Hernández García, 2013-11-12 The city is perhaps the most complex of all human constructs In the 21st century when cities are bigger than ever and the majority of the world's population now live in urban areas the need for research into this complexity to address the large scale challenges of urban life has never been greater This collection of research studies from different parts of the world brings together case studies underpinned by theory to contribute to the urgent search to make our cities more just more livable more accessible more participatory and more democratic in short more humane places to live and work These crosscutting themes of social inclusion spatial integration and poverty alleviation are the ever present motifs and motivations throughout this volume The eleven chapters are grouped into four interrelated sections the creation and representation of the urban the production and transformation of the informal the construction and appropriation of public spaces and finally the transformation use and meaning of home Collectively the essays engage with the city at a range of scales but underpinning all of them is a concern for the everyday realities of ordinary people's lives These detailed and finegrain analyses of complex processes are a modest contribution towards the creation of cities which are not simply more economically viable and environmentally sustainable but also embody the ideals of social justice

A Reflexive Reading of Urban Space Mona A.

Abdelwahab,2018-02-13 Providing a critique of the concepts attached to the representation of urban space this ground breaking book formulates a new theory of space which understands the dynamic interrelations between physical and social spaces while tracing the wider urban context It offers a new tool to approach the reading of these interrelations through reflexive reading strategies that identify singular reading fragments of the different spaces through multiple reader time space relations The strategies proposed in the volume seek to develop an integrative reading of urban space through recognition of the singular influenced by discourse institution etc and temporal influenced by reading perspective in space and time thereby providing a relational perspective that goes beyond the paradox of place in between social and physical space identifying each in terms of relationships oscillating between the conceptual the physical and social content and the context In conclusion the book suggests that space place can be read through sequential fragments of people place context mind and author reader Operating at different scales between conceptual space and reality the sequential reading helps the recognition of multiplicity and the dynamics of place as a transformational process without hierarchy or classification
