with some suggestions to other online universities to better serve their clientele by adapting if not adopting the system in use at AIU for the predicted glorious victory of e learning over traditional campus learning is dependent on the constant improvement of e learning

Distance-Learning Strategies in Campus-Based Translator Education Rene Hoffmann, 2003-01-09 Diploma Thesis from the year 2001 in the subject American Studies Miscellaneous grade 1 0 A Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz Applied Language and Literature Studies language English abstract The profession of translation operates on the cutting edge of globalization Both practicing professionals and researchers testify to an increasing use of computer tools in general and information and communication technologies in particular by translators when they conduct their work Translators and their clients as well as their colleagues are frequently located in different parts of the world and rely on electronic tools to exchange information between one another University level translator education is attempting to keep up with these developments but in light of the financial constraints it cannot help but fall behind in its effort to realistically emulate the translator s profession and to prepare students for their lives as professional translators There is clearly a need for effective computer use in the translator education classroom to ensure that the students transition between graduation and entry into the workforce will not become even more difficult than it already is Practitioners in distance education have long been forced to devise new economically and educationally efficient strategies to prepare students for their later professions These strategies possess the potential to aid translator education in its struggle of incorporating computers as an integral part of the educational process This thesis commences by defining distance education and by introducing different forms thereof Various examples are discussed as well as positive and negative attitudes towards distance education and the main differences to campus based education Based on these findings the relevance for translator education Chapters 1 and 2 is presented After introducing the basic theory of a constructivist approach to learning Chapter 3 and discussing pertinent skills of professional translators Chapter 4 Chapter 5 proposes specific distance learning environments for three different types of classes in university level translator education as well as additional benefits of employing distance learning environments Finally Chapter 6 briefly reviews the major points of this thesis and draws the germane conclusion This thesis is mainly geared toward the academic community in translator education in an effort to bring this matter to the forefront of discussion
