Ryan, 2000-10-26 This issue analyzes the strengths and weaknesses of current approaches to evaluating teaching and recommends practical strategies for both improving current evaluation methods and developing new ones The contributors provide an overview of new techniques such as peer evaluations portfolios and student ratings of instructors and technologies that can help instructors become more effective and help institutions demonstrate that effectiveness This is the 83rd issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Teaching and Learning

The University Paul A. Bové, 2000 The essays collected in this issue of boundary 2 were written in response to a call for papers that would treat the contemporary university in various regions and stages of formation around the world in light of the interaction between local and global realities Underlying this project is the assumption that profound changes in economy and world organization transform the function and value of universities in tension not only with the regional histories and forces in which particular universities function but also with what used to be called the idea of the university The authors of these essays approach this topic in two ways some present the history and current situation of the university in a given place and politics and some write of the new university's political economy as the state withdraws support for higher education and hands the institutions over to entrepreneurial and transnational corporate culture None of these essays defends the idea that the university pursues knowledge for its own sake Yet there is a tinge of nostalgia for this idea or at least for the idea that the university's task is to educate to destroy bias to cultivate Of course such an idea remains the public justification for the existence of the university especially in the advanced capitalist societies whose higher classes benefit the most from the globalization of economic production International Bibliography of Book Reviews of Scholarly Literature Chiefly in the Fields of Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences, 1999 Globalization, Universities and Issues of Sustainable Human Development Jean Larson Pyle, Robert Farrant, 2002 This collection of articles addresses the changing role of the university as a promoter of sustainable human development in an era of increasing globalization The 12 articles written by professors in a range of related disciplines target readers interested in regional studies economic development globalization and community development Editors Pyle and Farrant both are professors in the department of regional economic and social development U of Massachusetts Lowell Topics include sustainable regional development experiences from Slovenia recent developments in Irish based industry and grow your own skills in the new economy

Bibliographie Internationale Des Recensions de la Litt Ératre Savante, 1997 Planning for Higher Education, 1998 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1999 The Academic Chair's Handbook Daniel W. Wheeler, 2008-04-18 The Academic Chair's Handbook Every aspiring new and experienced chairperson will benefit from this rich resource of many integrated and well tested strategies that foster faculty development and their own development Larry A Braskamp professor emeritus Loyola University Chicago This second edition of The Academic Chair's Handbook provides an updated comprehensive and practical guide for academic department chairs and division heads at both two and four year institutions This essential resource includes new material on a variety of topics such as technology funding and resources departmental climate and quality assessment and accreditation and describes several strategies department chairs can use to build a positive work environment that fosters professional growth of both faculty and chairs The book's self assessment inventory can help determine which strategy is most appropriate for a particular situation While the strategies are upbeat positive and developmental they clearly address the often harsh political realities involved in chairing academic departments
